Friday Feeling

#035

Friday 25 June

We finished off the Y6 residential this week and I was privileged to accompany the last class, Madagascar. The children on each visit were a credit to the school and themselves, and commented very positively upon by the instructors. They overcame fears, showed determination and displayed great sportsmanship. Amongst the incredible experiences was the extraordinary rescue of an entangled turtle, which one snorkelling group witnessed first-hand. Thank you to all the children and staff who took part over the past few days.

FS1 had a great visit to the terminal earlier in the week – they had a go at each stage of the checking in process and looked at how the luggage got to the plane. They even watched an aircraft take-off! I heard that equally exciting was the bus journey on the way there; for some it was their first time on a bus. Well done to everybody involved.

Thank you for your support with Armed Forces Day today. The children spoke proudly about the photographs they brought in to share and there was a real sense of appreciation and admiration for our Armed Forces Heroes. Thank you and enjoy the rest of the festivities over the weekend.

Have a wonderful weekend,
