

Akrotiri School

Friday Feeling

#04

Friday 25 September 2020

Today saw the first of our School Governance Committee (SGC) meetings of the year. Chaired by Gp Capt Nikki Thomas, it was a great opportunity to welcome some new faces and re-engage with the established committee. We explored the core values and aims of the school and toured the school to observe how this is reflected. The first formal meeting of the year is scheduled before half term, with a training session built into the schedule in December.

Part of the tour involved project updates. The postponed library and music room improvements are now back on, and we seek volunteers (with artistic flair or artistic enthusiasm!) to help with the creation of a giant 'bookshelf' – it will involve a lot of painting! If you would like to be involved please contact Miss Flynn in the first instance.

As we settle into the rhythm of school life again, the children continue to impress with their positive attitudes and great teamwork. During the distribution of Golden Mentions this week, it was very impressive to see how the children in each class gave genuine applause and expressed delight that their peer had been awarded – this is the Akrotiri way!

Our joint effort on monitoring the use of helmets was a huge success and children continue to wear appropriate protective headgear. We will, in liaison with the CJPu COMPOL and SBA police, run spot checks on this issue over the next few weeks. Thank you everyone, for supporting with this.

Finally, this week – the children had the most wonderful smiley faces for their annual school photographs. The proofs will come out soon, and you will have the opportunity to select a package and order online via the unique pupil specific code.

Have a wonderful weekend.

Best wishes,
Ben Turner
