Friday Feeling

#001

Friday 16 September

As we end this extraordinary week, children have been an absolute credit to you and to the school. Alongside the learning they have been engaged in with regard to their new class names and setting their aspirations and expectations for the year ahead, children across the school have also been focussed on the significance of the Queen's passing. They have explored her life and what she offered through dedicated service and also how they have felt this week. In a poignant assembly this morning, children were able to share some of their work and thoughts.

As we embarked upon the curriculum units, children across the school have immersed themselves in inspiring provocations or off-site visits to stimulate a curiosity for learning. I have seen bread making, food tasting, resources to inspire questions and children making their best effort in their new books. It has been a pleasure to talk with children about the year ahead and I am extremely proud of the calm and purposeful approach that has been adopted in each class. It is an exciting year ahead.
